

GEORGE A. STRONG RESIDENCE

PLAINFIELD, UNION COUNTY, NEW JERSEY

The George A. Strong Residence, constructed in 1896 as a private residence was converted for use as a private school in 1933 and expanded with a gymnasium, classroom & auditorium in the mid 20th century. Today the former home serves as the duCret School of Art and remains a fine example of a Colonial Revival residential architecture reflecting the history of the suburban growth in Plainfield in the late 19th century.

- Services: Historic Preservation Plan, National Register Nomination, Contract Documents, Bidding, and Contract Administration.
- Construction: Partial Exterior Restoration including repairs at the roof, chimney, and porte cochere and restoration of the front porch.
- Total Grant Funding: $180,000 (Union County Historic Preservation Trust Fund & New Jersey Historic Trust)
- Total Project Costs: $312,640