

LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE

FLORHAM PARK, MORRIS COUNTY, NEW JERSEY

The Little Red Schoolhouse is a one-story brick building that was constructed in 1866 and moved to its current location in 1976. The schoolhouse is a fine example of a one-room school house that reflects typical nineteenth-century schoolhouse architecture. Today, the schoolhouse serves as a local history museum operated by the Florham Park Historical Commission.

- Services: Historic Preservation Plan, Design Development, Contract Documents, Bidding and Contract Administration.
- Construction: Multi-Phased Exterior Restoration including Restoration of the roof, brick masonry, windows and doors; site upgrades; barrier-free upgrades, and proposed Interior Restoration.
- Grants: $340,616 (Morris County)
- Total Project Costs: $425,770